Please find below the Health Statement for the Dandie Dinmont Terrier as approved by the Board of Governors of the Dandie Dinmont Terrier Club of America, Inc.

The Dandie Dinmont Terrier is a rare breed with a small gene pool. Dandies used for breeding must be properly matured and in robust health. No bitch shall be bred more often than two out of three consecutive seasons and shall never be bred at her first season. Dandies have few health issues and they are not issues that can currently be tested for.

No recommended tests.
